

Stunning shades

Blend style and function. Make them play well with helmet straps. Offer multiple, easily swapped lens options and a comfortable, adjustable nosepiece. The criteria for great riding shades sound simple, but few truly hit the mark. These sunglasses nail it, melding the performance we require with the looks we desire. By Galey Fretz and Logan Von Bokel

DUAL VISION $65

What good is that performance-enhancing power meter if you can't read the display? Dual eyewear makes high performance, stylish bifocal glasses, designed with the same attention to detail and quality materials as the other glasses on these pages, but with a small +1.5, +2.0, or +2.5 spot diopter at the bottom of each shatter-proof, scratch-resistant lens. The new SL2 Pro model is a favorite for its stylish and functional wraparound design, and the price, just $65, offers some of the best value anywhere.

"DUAL VISION $65

What good is that performance-enhancing power meter if you can't read the display? Dual eyewear makes high performance, stylish bifocal glasses, designed with the same attention to detail and quality materials as the other glasses on these pages, but with a small +1.5, +2.0, or +2.5 spot diopter at the bottom of each shatter-proof, scratch resistant lens. The new SL2 Pro model is a favorite, and the price, just $65, offers some of the best value anywhere."